

THE WATER CYCLE

Water Painting

On a hot day when the sun is high, try this fun experiment with water painting!

MATERIALS:

Sunshine	Notebook
Bucket of Water	Pencil
Paintbrush	Driveway or Sidewalk

- 1 Draw an idea for your water painting in a notebook with a pencil.
- 2 Fill the bucket with water, grab a paintbrush, and go outside.
- 3 Find two different spots on your driveway or sidewalk: one in the sun and one in the shade.
- 4 Paint your picture with water in the sunny spot.
- 5 Paint your picture with water in the spot in the shade.
- 6 When you're done painting the second painting, go and look at the painting that was in the sun. Has it changed? How so? As more time passes, does the painting in the shade change? Draw any changes to your water painting next to your original idea in the notebook and talk about the difference with a friend or parent!
